

The 18xx games are on page 2 onwards in the order of starting - but Tony Bromley's games are held over as he has been on an extended holiday. Don sent orders with the help of son Colin (thank you!). Outpost M14 is on p8 and St. Petersburg M4 is on p9. The Games That You Play is below.

New Games:

- Andy Muir took up Don's place in 1856X39.
- The only response I noticed about a map for a new Railway Rivals game was from Mike. That was the second time of asking but I am still not sure that the others are uninterested. I did not make direct contact as promised last time so I will try again this time - with Mike's suggestions included.
- Dane joined the list for a new regular Outpost. I will start it next time.
- There was no interest shown in taking Don's place on the 1829 waiting list.
- I will check whether it is sensible for Don to be in a new game. The candidates for the next 18xx would seem to be an 1835 and then an 1856.

In the end my advised impediment did not stop this issue being published on my nominally intended date of the second Tuesday after the deadline. The next deadline is really Sunday 20th November as I will be in Hastings (used to be Eastbourne - as it were) playing games from the Friday.

I have a copy of Scythe (the board game in a big box) waiting for me have time to examine, understand and hopefully appreciate it. I have heard good things and I hope they are true - the pound's relation to the euro has helped make it (I believe) the most expensive board game that I have ever bought.

As the THB reached its destination below I noticed that the CA did not get credit for reaching its destination in OR12. Whoops-a-Daisy. The CA already had its 5 train at that point with only diesels available. But John W might have used the credit to place bases - although the only apparent blocker would have been on H15 to hit the CGR, which could have promoted its way back through without problem. Even so, it is not a good thing and the credit is granted at the start of OR15 below.

Meanwhile, John S looks set for first place as we reach what is probably the last set of operating rounds ...

The OR3 operating order is - GT, CPR, GW, LPS.

A company each, as you would expect. Next time we will stop after SR2 if a 3 train is bought in OR1 and/or if there is a new or changed presidency in SR2. So we will only have OR2 & SR3 if no 3 train has been bought before OR2 starts and if the companies and their presidents in OR2 are the same as in OR1. I could try and say the same thing a third way but that would probably be seen as confusing.
