

The 18xx games are in order of starting from p2 onwards. Outpost M18 is on p11, Puerto Rico M2 is on p12 & p13, St. Petersburg M6 is on p14. The Games That You Play is below.

New Games: 1829R43 starts on p5 for Mike R, John S, Tony S & David H.

My technical warbles last time met with such acclaim that it would be dangerous for me to make any sort of repeat report any sooner than at one year from now. So you have time to prepare yourselves.

COMMENTS

Mike 1st

An interesting map; quite unlike any other with its profusion of waterways and the absence of any significant high ground. However, as with so many of Bruce Whyte's compositions, geographical accuracy does appear to trump playability, and in this case the starting locations are deeply unbalanced. Cairo looks desirable but will inevitably attract a mass of competition. Port Said is OK, but Suez is just hopeless, leaving Alexandria as the stand-out location as far as I am concerned. I would have paid any price to start there on my own and fancied my chances from the moment I got it. That said, I never imagined that the margin of victory would be so large. Lucky me, I guess. Thanks to Rob for running the game impeccably as always, and commiserations to my opponents.

John 2nd

Thanks to Rob as always, Congratulations to Mike, although I must admit, I can't see that his network is so much better than others. I'm just pleased to hold on to second place on such a confusing map.

Tony 4th

What's all this analysis going on? Throw the dice and move the trains, that's all there is to it! Says the bloke who came 4th!!! This is the second time I have played this map, first time round I won quite easily but cannot remember my start point... it may well have been Alexandria. I do agree starting in Suez or Port Said is deeply undesirable and in Cairo, as mentioned by Mike, looks good but all those waterways slows you down hugely in early moves. One good point on the map is the clarity of the hex numbering, in some maps I really struggle to read the numbers... maybe due to the number of hills!! Anyway, thanks to Rob for refereeing, and well done to Mike (and John).

There were various collisions of plan around J3 & J5, a developing lack of 63 & 170 tiles and quicker than apparently anticipated train purchases. Where necessary I worked from stated intent, sometimes across companies with the same president. Take a look and please lodge appeals at your earliest convenience.

GAMESTART

You are .... In dealing order ... Mike Ruffhead, John Shelley, Tony S, David Hooton.

You each have the traditional £630 and an expectation of glory. This is Tony's first 1829 so congratulations to him for taking the plunge. Tony - I think that I have sent you all you need but just yell at any time if something is unclear. The L&M Private Company was not much loved, considered to be a great purchase, in the game as published and hence the optional PC Rule was created and that is in force for this game.

Right, onwards and let us all have a great game ...

1829R43 : MSK1, PC RULE

NEXT TIME - SDR1

We stop after MR4 by request with just one Minor Company still operating, but with more available. The RSR is formed but none of the contributing companies came with any cash or trains so it has to fend for itself ...
